HUME HUBS - A MULTICULTURAL COMMUNITY

WHAT ARE THE COMMUNITY HUBS?

Community hubs are welcoming places where migrant and refugee families, particularly mothers with young children, come to connect, share, and learn. Hubs bridge the gap between migrants and the wider community, they connect women with schools, with each other, and with organisations that can provide health, education, and settlement support.

HUME COUNCIL'S HUBS:

There are 15 Community Hubs in the Hume Council. All the Hubs are located within Primary Schools and they provide programs such as Playgroups, English classes, settlement information, social activities and health related information.

To find out more about specific programs offered within the hubs, contact the community development hub coordinator located in the hub closest to you. Different languages are spoken at the hubs, please contact each hub to find out which languages are available.

BEST TABOULI RECIPE

Recipe by Ramia Taleb Roxburgh Park Primary School

INGREDIENTS

- ½ cup of bulgur
- 1 cup diced cucumber (1 small-to-medium)
- 1 cup diced tomato (1 large)
- 1 teaspoon fine sea salt, divided
- 3 medium bunches of curly parsley
- 1/3 cup (2/3 ounce) chopped fresh mint (optional but recommended—you can chop it in the food processor with the parsley)
- 1/3 cup thinly sliced green onion
- 1/3 cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 3 to 4 tablespoons lemon juice, to taste
- 1 medium clove garlic, pressed or minced

METHOD

- 1. Cook or soak the bulgur until tender according to package directions. Drain off any excess water and set aside to cool.
- 2. Meanwhile, combine the diced cucumber and tomato in a medium bowl with ½ teaspoon of the salt. Stir, and let the mixture rest for at least 10 minutes, or until you're ready to mix the salad.
- 3. To prepare the parsley, cut off the thick stems. Then, finely chop the parsley and remaining stems—you can do this by hand, but it's much easier in a food processor with the standard "S" blade. Process 1 bunch at a time (it should yield about 1 cup chopped), transferring the chopped parsley to a large serving bowl before proceeding with the next.
- 4. Add the cooled bulgur, chopped fresh mint (if using) and green onion to the bowl of parsley. Strain off and discard the cucumber and tomato juice that has accumulated in the bottom of the bowl (this ensures that your tabbouleh isn't too watery). Add the strained cucumber and tomato to the

- 5. In a small measuring cup or bowl, whisk together the olive oil, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, garlic, and remaining ½ teaspoon salt. Pour it into the salad and stir to combine. Taste, and adjust if necessary—add another tablespoon of lemon juice for zing, or salt for more overall flavor.
- 6. Let the salad rest for 15 minutes before serving to let the flavors mingle. Otherwise, you can serve it immediately or chill it for later. Tabbouleh will keep well in the refrigerator.

Make it gluten free: Bulgur is not gluten free (it's cracked wheat). Substitute quinoa for an untraditional gluten-free option. You'll use the same amount (½ cup) uncooked quinoa, or 1 ½ cups cooked leftover quinoa.

STUFFED EGGPLANTS MAKDOUS (SYRIAN RECIPE)

Recipe by Awatif Jameel Good Samaritan Primary School

INGREDIENTS

- 1.5kg baby eggplants
- Half a kilo sun-dried red pepper
- 100g walnuts
- Salt, preferably coarse

- 1. Trim the stem of the eggplants and wash. Fill 2/3 of a big pot with water and let it boil. Weigh the eggplants down with a smaller heavy pot lid so they do not float and poach in boiling water for about 10 minutes to soften. The softening time will depend on the eggplants. In Syria, eggplants take more time to cook than in US. In general, they should only be a little soft to the touch when you press on them, but firm to hold their shape.
- 2. Promptly place the eggplants in ice water so they won't continue to cook, then drain completely and let cool.
- 3. Salt the eggplants so they will sweat as much water as possible. Make a little dent lengthwise in each eggplant with your index finger. Then, drench each eggplant with salt putting some inside the dent too. Arrange them in a big colander, place a big plate on top and weigh them down with a big can. Place a bowl under the colander to collect any liquids. Leave for 2 days making sure to empty the bowl occasionally.
- 4. To prepare the filling, mix together chopped walnuts, chopped red pepper and one teaspoon of salt. Red pepper cut in half and sun dried. You can use all sweet or chilly or a combination of both. If sun drying is not a option, you can broil pepper in the oven on low or use dried red pepper or paprika. Chop the red pepper and add to the mixture.
- 5. Stuff eggplants with walnut-pepper mixture, about 1 tablespoon for each depending on how big they are.
- 6. Arrange eggplants in a colander again, place a big plate on top and weigh them down. Leave for two days.

- 7. Arrange eggplants in clean jars, flip upside down tilted to drain any extra juices for one day.
- 8. Fill with olive oil to cover all and store in room temperature. It should be ready in three days. Makdous can keep for a year if properly made and covered with oil all the time.
- 9. Recently, many people will only fill one jar with makdous and freeze the rest in small packs (after step 6). This way you can recycle the olive oil once the first jar is over.
- 10. To prepare the frozen makdous, just put in a colander and allow to defrost for a couple of hours, then arrange in the same jar and add a little extra olive oil.
- 11. Serve a couple of makdouses with some olive oil from the jar for breakfast or supper with warm flat bread. Just take a piece of bread and dig in. They also make tasty sandwiches.

MARAK KUBBAH (A TRADITIONAL KURDISH BEET SOUP)

Recipe by Nadia Yalda Good Samaritan Primary School

INGREDIENTS

BEET SOUP

- Olive oil
- 1 medium onion, roughly chopped
- 6 beets, peeled and roughly chopped
- 4 tablespoons (about 100 grams) tomato puree
- 2 tablespoons sweet paprika
- salt and freshly ground pepper
- 8 cups chicken stock
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- juice of 1 lemon

MARAK KUBBEH ADOM

- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 tablespoon ras al hanout
- 1 onion, finely chopped
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 pound lean ground beef
- freshly ground black pepper
- 3 tablespoons finely chopped cilantro
- 4 cups coarse wheat semolina
- 2 cups water

METHOD BEET SOUP

1. Heat olive oil in a large pot over medium heat and sauté the onions until translucent. Add the beets and cook for a few minutes. Stir in the tomato paste. Add the paprika and season with salt and pepper, then add the chicken stock (of course it's best to use homemade here, but just use the best quality you can.

- I have to admit, I used "chicken soup mix" because that's what we have here, and it turned out great.). Allow to simmer over medium-low heat, uncovered, for at least an hour.
- 2. Just before adding the kubbeh, stir in the sugar and lemon juice. Using an immersion blender, pulse to partially blend the soup (or carefully transfer about 1/3 to a blender). This step is optional and will depend on what texture you like your soup.

MARAK KUBBEH ADOM

- 1. Heat the olive oil in a large pan over medium-high heat. Add the ras al hanout and toast, stirring, 1 minute. Add the onions and garlic and sauté until translucent. Add the ground beef and cook, stirring and breaking up with a spoon, until meat is cooked through. Remove from the heat and season with black pepper. If there is a lot of grease and fat in the pan then drain. Allow to cool, stir in cilantro, and set aside.
- 2. Put the semolina and water in a large bowl and allow to sit for a few minutes until the water is fully absorbed. It should be soft, but not liquidy or sticky. Try to avoid adding additional water or semolina as it could become very sticky; if this happens discard and start over. Just trust me.
- 3. Separate the mixture into balls. Flatten each ball, placing a large spoonful of the meat mixture in the centre and closing the dough around the meat. Refrigerate the balls until the soup is ready. Add the balls to the soup.
